Fredericks to Campaign United Crusade Post On Five Major Issues Goes to Redondo Man

"This is the year when thousands of people will break through the outdated barrier of straight party-line voting."

So said Fred Fredericks, Republican candidate for the Assembly in the 67th District, at the first of a series of strategy and policy meetings held this week at his headquarters in Gardena. Addressing his supporters, Fredericks said, "People everywhere, regardless of their political affiliation, are angry about the wanton waste of tax monies, terror in the streets, and machine politics."

"People are fed up, and they are ready to retire any representative who has ignored the critical issues." The candidate named five major issues which he feels concern the voters today. They are: crime, taxes, narcotics, welfare, and education.

"I intend to visit every corner of my district," he said, "speaking in parking lots and on street corners, telling people what I intend to do about these things when I'm elected."

Jim Resetco, campaign manager, announced that the "Friends of Fred" have donated and decorated a large truck and supplied sound equipment for the candidate's use while speaking directly to the voters in the area.

The 67th Assembly District encompasses Gardena, Lawndale, and portions of Hawthorne, North Torrance, North Redondo Beach, and Compton.

Roger W. Rolapp, office manager of the Travelers Insurance Company in the Union Bank Tower in Torrance, has been named Commerce and Industry Campaign Specialist for the 1968 United Crusade.

He will spend several days on loan from his firm to work full time on United Crusade. During that time, he will contract Harbor area firms in the Group II classification, those with ten to 50 employees.

The Harbor Area includes Palos Verdes, San Pedro, Lomita, Harbor City, Wilmington, Torrance, Gardena, and Rolling Hills.

Commerce and Industry is only part of the United Crusade, which also includes professional and residential campaigns. Proceeds are distributed to United Way agencies and American Red Cross chapters.

Rolapp, his wife Diane, and their two daughters, Cheryl Ann, 3, and Cynthia Lynn, 2, live at 2407 Gates in Redondo Beach.
